NOTED CAMELLIAS OF PASS NOW BLOOMING

Possibly the most famous camellia plant along the entire Gulf coast is now in bloom at 861 East Beach. This plant, of the single-blossom type, was noted by Mrs. Frances Parker Lewis Butler, great-granddaughter of Martha Washington and grand-niece of George Washington. Mrs. Butler died in the house located at 861 East Beach in 1875 and is buried in the Live Oak cemetery.

Ossian Hall is the large two-story structure having four large fluted columns across the veranda. It was erected in 1849 and is presently owned by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert DeBen.

SUPT. HALL WARNS INTERUDERS IN GYM

Superintendent of Schools, Norman Hall, has learned that the Pass High gymnasium has been entered by force and used without permission on Sundays and other occasions. Mr. Hall says: "Any persons found using the gymnasium without authorized permission from the School Board will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law." Mr. Hall says valuable equipment may be damaged by abuse of the gymnasium. Public cooperation in Mr. Hall's endeavor to keep the gymnasium properly used would be appreciated.

CHURCHILL
Winston Churchill, possibly the greatest Britisher of all times and undoubtedly the greatest man of his generation, addressed a joint session of the Congress on Thursday last. In spite of 77 years and the scars of many war and political battles, the great Prime Minister of England, the head of His Majesty's Government, was in his usual fine form. In our tenure here in Washington we have heard many great speakers and world leaders. Possibly the greatest of them all have been Churchill, Roosevelt, MacArthur and Madam Chiang Kai-shek, the wife of the Chinese National leader. But none of them, for pure logic, drama and persuasion, out-ranks the great "Winnie."

While the reactions to Churchill's speech were varied, all who heard him, many for the first time, were uniform in their praise of the great powers of the man's oratorical ability.

In 1945 it was my privilege by virtue of my chairmanship of the Post War Policy Committee to be the dinner guest of Winston Churchill. There were only about seven of us at the table but my visit and the dinner combined lasted for some three hours. Notwithstanding the fact that I had interviewed that year most of the then leaders of the world, including Joe Stalin, I shall always consider my visit with Churchill as the highlight of my humble career. Just before I took my departure I told Mr. Churchill that all the other European leaders whom I had talked with including Stalin had asked for money, grants and credits from the United States, but I was agreeably surprised that he had not raised that question in the conference. His reply was that he did not like to see his people begging alms. I was therefore very much interested in his speech to the Congress to see just how he would treat this subject some six years later.

I must confess that I was somewhat disappointed but not surprised when he said in his Thursday's speech to the Congress that he had not come over here begging money but that he came "not for gold, but for steel; not for favors but for equipment." While we all realize that it is necessary to have a strong friendly ally in Great Britain in this fight against Communism, we also know that Mr. Churchill and the English people realize that the English Colonial system is on the wane and that it is impossible for the United States to continue indefinitely to underwrite the economy of Great Britain.

And this applies to steel and equipment as well as gold. For after all, steel and equipment are obtained by gold.

And this applies to steel and equipment as well as gold. For after all, steel and equipment are obtained by gold.

BUY LEPEDeza SEED NOW

By HOWARD SIMMONS

PASTURES

Planting seed—The supply of lepedeza seed is critically short this year. Buy your seed now for March 1 planting. Don't wait until after March 1. If you do, there may not be any seed available.

Also on the short list is imported Dallis grass seed so it is advisable to buy both Dallis and lepedeza seed as soon as possible.

These are two of the best summer grazing crops for Mississippi. Don't fail to have some of both in your pastures. Buy your planting seed now.

Protect winter grazing—Rooting hogs are one of the worst enemies of winter grazing crops. They not only damage the root systems of the plants and kill out lots of young plants, but they leave the pasture in such a condition that it is often impossible to mow.

Keep hogs out of your pastures. Keep your own hogs up and put rings in their noses so that they won't root. Ask your neighbor to keep his hogs up too.

Don't graze young crops until they are well established. The damage done to the young plants is far greater than any good that can be had by grazing the pastures too soon. Remember that pastures are often damaged more by livestock bogging than they are by grazing. Keep stock out of pastures when the land is soft.

ORCHARD

Management—Now is the time for home and commercial orchardists to prune up and clean up their orchards. Within the next few weeks is the best time to do the necessary pruning, training and cleaning up of the orchard. Too, it is also the time to spray fruit trees and pecan trees to control destructive scale insects. However, do the pruning and cleaning before spraying.

Retiring Governor, Honorable Fielding L. Wright, and incoming Governor, Honorable Hugh L. The proclamation states that our children are our greatest assets; that the problems of the world are becoming more complicated and difficult of solution; that when the children of today in a few years take over places they will have to be better prepared than we were when we arrived at the age of responsibility.

Gulf put $13,862,319.00 of new money into circulation in Mississippi in 1951. Of this, almost $10-million was spent on production and pipeline activities and almost $4-million by Gulf's sales department.

All the people of Mississippi benefitted from this development that spread these new millions of dollars into all channels of trade. For example—Gulf spent $1,370,199 for materials, supplies and rents; $1,305,347.74 for local and state taxes; $4,667,525 in payrolls and commissions; and $2,744,792 in royalty and rental payments.

And, Gulf's pioneering goes on into 1952. Seismic survey work is continuing on Mississippi's 800,000 coastal acres looking toward the drilling of the state's first off-shore well. Gulf has leases in 43 of the state's 82 counties and is carrying on an extensive exploration program.

All of this work means progress for Gulf, and at the same time this continued sound development of the state's oil and gas resources helps bring more opportunities for a better life to all the people of Mississippi.

State beef cattle production

MISSISSIPPI—leading the South in beef cattle production—has increased its number of beef cows, heifers and steers 28% during the past two years. This has resulted in more stable earnings, more farm profits... an important signpost of progress.

ANOTHER SIGNPOST OF PROGRESS in the Magnolia State is the growth of the beer industry, due to the increased public acceptance of legally-regulated beer as the beverage of moderation.

1,942 Seniors Indicate Interest in State College

State College, Miss.—A total of 1,942 high school seniors in Mississippi have indicated an interest in attending Mississippi State College to continue their education. Eight of these seniors live in Hancock County.

The survey of college preferences among high school students scheduled for graduation this year was conducted by the Beta Club, national high school honor society. Each senior was asked to list his first and second choice.

Mississippi State College, which led all other educational institutions in the preference, was listed as the first choice of 1,084 and the second choice of 858. These figures show an increase over those for the class of 1951, when 886 and 667 listed Mississippi State as first and second choice, respectively.

In a letter to the interested students, President Fred T. Mitchell invited them to learn more about this college and the opportunities awaiting them here. "The recent addition of several new buildings and the strengthening of our faculty have made it possible for us to offer you the finest educational program in the 72-year history of this college," Dr. Mitchell wrote.

The largest number of students interested in Mississippi State was 67 in Pike County; Hinds County followed closely with 65. Other counties in the top ten were Webster, 64; Jones, 57; Lee, 56; Washington, 48; Lowndes, 47; Union, 44; Sunflower, 41; and Harrison, 40.

Gives Lessons On Making Buttonholes

Lessons on making tailored buttonholes and buttonholes were given at the monthly meeting of the Bay-Waveland Home Demonstration club January 17 at the R. E. A. building by Miss Madge Allred, Home Demonstration agent.

Miss Loyette Webb, R. E. A. Electro-Zoonomist, showed the movie, "What is Electricity?" Important dates of extra meetings in the future were announced, and a delegate to State College was appointed.

New projects for the year and parliamentary rules were read and discussed after which the hostess, Mrs. Ernest Yates, served refreshments.

The president, Mrs. T. P. Clapp, read a verse on "Vegetables," with reference to qualities members might copy or avoid in their own behavior.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, February 21, at the home of Mrs. Philip Hayes in Waveland.

PARENTS-TEACHERS AFTERNOON MEET

Last Thursday afternoon the Pass Christian Public Schools P-T A. met in the auditorium immediately following classes. The attendance was good, according to Miss Naomi Saucier, who is principal of the elementary division of the school.

Students from the seventh and eighth grades presented a program that was well received. Miss Saucier expressed the belief that the afternoon meeting enabled some to attend who would not be able to get out for night meetings.

The school is now going into a new semester and six-week tests have been completed.

While school grounds are comparatively clean, it has been noticed that many large evergreens are dead or dying. Some massive oaks on the campus would do the National Live Oak Association honors! A recent visitor to the school lunch room reported the room clean and the children orderly.

THE FAMILY THAT PRAYS TOGETHER STAYS TOGETHER

Under the slogan, emblazoned on banners and streamers, echoed and re-echoed on the radio, in the press and platform, a new and unique campaign or crusade was launched in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Florida gram to the Legislature, and the bulk of the legislative work will begin after the week of January 21 to January 25.

There was little action from the floor of the Legislature during the past week. The Committees were named in the Senate; but as yet, the Speaker of the House has not indicated any Committee assignment for the House.

Some of the bills, which might be of interest to the citizens of Hancock County, introduced last week were those to raise the old age pension to $50.00; to eliminate the regulation now requiring a reduction in the amount of pension paid to old folks when their children are working and making over a certain stipulated amount. These two bills have been referred to Committees and are expected to be among the first to be reported on.

Your representative has co-sponsored a bill, together with several other representatives, to eliminate the electric chair as a means of execution, and substitute, therefore, a gas chamber. This chamber is to be located at Parchment, the state penitentiary and all executions will take place there. Under the present system, a portable electric chair is used, and the executions take place in the County from which the prisoner was sentenced to be executed. It is believed that this present system tends to give a circus atmosphere to the executions and submits people of the county, in which the executions take place, to undue strain and adverse publicity. The gas chamber was chosen as the new means of execution for the reason that it is deemed to be a more humane method than electrocution.

The governor was inaugurated January 22, and this was quite an occasion. After the inauguration, the governor indicated his pro-last Sunday.

Though initiated by the Roman Catholic church and directed primarily to its own members, the appeal has equal validity for all, irrespective of creed.

It is an expression of solidarity for the welfare and stability of the family, and it seeks the remedy for domestic ills and dangers in a universal and spontaneous dedication of every family to united family prayers. It envisages the transformation of the family hearth into a little church or miniature sanctuary.

The family has ever been the smallest, but the most stable, of human organizations. The family is conceived as the unit, or the individual brick, from the multitude of which are built all nations. The family is a natural society, wherein man's innate thirst for happiness, for his perpetuation, and for social security is quenched. The family is sacred, for it is the cradle not only of children, but also of the nation.

—its forces and its glory as a truly sublime, therefore, is the purpose and mission of the family. And to attain fully its lofty destiny, the family must be religious. Religion inspires parents to be models of virtue to their children and implants in the children not alone love of God, but also those social and moral virtues which create a happy domestic life as well as individual happiness.

Religion, therefore, is the animating, stabilizing and unifying principle of the family. But the voice of religion is prayer. Prayer raises man above and beyond himself. Through it he communes with God. It unites minds and hearts in a concerted hymn of praise to God; it offers atonement for the faults and failings of men; it acknowledges man's inaptitude and helplessness; and help upon the earth and its mundane needs.

Family prayer does all this and more. It binds father and mother together in a hallowed union wherein the crosses and vicissitudes of life become bearable. Through it the children's love and respect for parents is increased. The most cherished and consoling memories which a dutiful son retains of his deceased parents, is that of the hallowed moments when the weary father or the ailing mother knelt in profound recollection with the family in prayer. What father or mother, crushed by the burden of life, when hearing their children's plea to God to shield their own, would not be encouraged to continue the struggle and to bear their burdens a little further.

The people of Pass Christian are invited and urged to join this Crusade of Prayer with their slogan, THE FAMILY THAT PRAYS TOGETHER STAYS TOGETHER.

There will be a meeting at St. Paul's on Sunday, January 20 at 7 a. m.

CATHOLIC CRUSADE ASKS: "WHAT CAUSES PEACE?"

For centuries men have sought the answer to the question: "What causes wars?" The Roman Catholic Church has not found the cause of wars, but appeals to family units to help bring about peace through prayer.

PRAY TOGETHER SLOGAN

Having adopted the slogan: "The family that prays together stays together," the Catholic Churches have launched a prayer program that is far-reaching in its appeal being expressed in banners, streamers, by press and radio and platform.

PLAN DOOR TO DOOR CANVAS

The St. Paul's Catholic Church in Pass Christian has impressed the power of prayer on its own members, and plans to launch a door-to-door canvas in attempt to get all families, regardless of creed, to pray together for peace.

APPLY GOLDEN RULE

There is real gold in the Golden Rule. It stands as a guide to justice and peace. It is the time-tested code. Therefore you must always treat other people as you would like to have them treat you. What causes peace? The Catholic Church thinks the answer can be found in prayer. When a church canvasser comes to your door, apply the golden rule. Invite him in and listen open-mindedly. Let us pray for complete harmony in our home, our community, our state and our world and to quote Sir Author: "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

HOW TO AVOID COLDS, NAGGING ACHES AND PAINS THIS WINTER

New Formula Quickly Builds Resistance Against Ills Striking In Cold Weather

You can say "Goodbye" to colds, nagging aches and pains and other distress this winter, when you are fortified with plenty of Iron, B-1, B-2, B-6 and Niacin. Recommended by many doctors, these ingredients are contained in New HI-VITA Tonic, the medically proven formula everyone in Bay St. Louis is talking about.

A well-known Mississippi Minister has related his happy experience with New HI-VITA Tonic. He said that aches and pains in his arms and shoulders and a cramping in the lower part of his back made him feel so bad that his work among his congregation came to be a heavy burden. He said that he would frequently have to get up in the night and take walks about his yard to be able to endure his terrible suffering. He said he tried about everything "under the Sun" before he finally found the relief he had long sought in HI-VITA, which gave him relief and new strength. Today this kind minister enjoys life again. He works and sleeps in peace. His system is strengthened and soothed. He is grateful to HI-VITA for what it did for him.

How to HARNESS a Piece of FOREST LAND

If we can keep control of forces which interfere with natural evolution in the woods, millions of acres of timber land are capable of doing more work and contributing more substantially to the income of tributary communities.

FIRST . . . and foremost, this means elimination of FIRE . . . principal woodland threat. SECOND . . . it means turning to count and not wasting fecundity by preserving and protecting seed sources . . . and THIRD . . . it means harvesting timber according to the capacity of nature to replace and grow new trees in a particular area.

Our management plans call for the harvesting of the inherent wealth in our timber lands for the future profit and benefit of the people of this community.

'51 Was A Big Rural Telephone Year!

At the beginning of what we expect to be another great rural expansion year in Mississippi let's look at what was accomplished last year.

More than 100 new Mississippi rural telephone projects were completed during the year. These involved the construction of mile after mile of new lines with their thousands of new poles, many new buildings for modern dial switching units, new and expensive central office equipment and thousands of new telephone instruments.

Last year's expansion and that of the previous five years have given rural Mississippians approximately 4 times as many telephones as they had in 1945. To achieve this expansion and improvement of rural service, Southern Bell spent more than 9 million dollars. This required raising new capital from investors counting upon a reasonable return on their money.

Telephone rates that enable us to pay a reasonable return to investors provide the only assurance that we will be able to obtain the money needed for this year's big program of rural telephone expansion in Mississippi.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

For some time our Extension Specialist in Consumer Education has been working with Home Demonstration Club members on various business facts of interest to homemakers. One particular phase of this subject deals with the importance of making a will.

How would you answer the question, "Is it very important for women to make a will?"

But before you answer the question there are two facts you should remember. Women spend about 80 to 85 percent of the family income. Women of the United States own controlling interests in big businesses.

If these facts are true, and we have no reason to doubt that they are, you can easily see why women need to be more conscious of the importance of making a will.

This doesn't mean that men shouldn't also be encouraged to go into action on this matter also. But in working through the women's groups, the consumer education specialist believes that if women get to talking about something like wills, the men will hear about it. The work on wills, with the home demonstration groups is in an educational way only. If you have problems with reference to making your will, the specialist advises you to consult a local attorney.

A will is defined as a legal document by which a man or woman disposes of his or her property to take effect after death. In other words, by simply making a will you can say who is to own your house, drive your car, wear your diamond ring or spend the money you may have taken years to accumulate.

Even though you haven't a great deal of property and even though you may be in perfect health, you still need to have a will — no matter how small your estate may be. Death is bound to come to all of us, and there should be nothing morbid about arranging our affairs in a businesslike manner.

A lot of men and women have the feeling that they are flitting with the undertaker if they so much as think about such a subject. Too, you hear a great many people say, "I know there won't be anything disagreeable to come up about the division of my property after I'm dead and gone."

But these people shouldn't be too sure. It's simply shocking at times how a family can fall out after the death of someone over a misunderstanding about property, even some small object of virtually no value. Greed may manifest itself in some instances where it has never shown up before.

All of us will do well to remember that the making of a will is not a birthright, but a privilege granted by the state. We should take advantage of this privilege.

Some people hold back because they hesitate about seeing a lawyer. Others fear the cost that may be incurred. Others have informed members of the family about how their property should be divided and feel sure that there will be no discord over the division of their possessions. What all these people forget is that the very ones they want to protect may be left with little or nothing unless they make a will.

All states do not have uniform laws with reference to making of wills. You should acquaint yourself with the laws of the state in which you live or own property before drawing up a will.

Our Mississippi law requires that a person must be 21 years old to execute a will for either real or personal property. In the State of Georgia, the age is 14. In South Carolina, you must be 21 years old to execute a will for real property, but for personal property a male has this legal right at 14 years old and a female at 12 years old.

Your home agent plans series of columns on the subject of wills to appear from time to time in the next few weeks with the hope that the information she passes on to you from the Extension consumer education specialist will be of help to you and encourage you not to delay in making your will.
